MISCELLANEOUS.

SEE THE LABEL
ON THE TOP OF EACH BOTTLE OF
HEIMSTREET'S INIMITABLE
HAIR RESTORATIVE
Has the Signatures of the Proprietors,
W. E. HAGAN & Co.
Every article which has a large and increasing sale like this is liable to be counterfeited. It is, as its name indicates, entirely "INIMITABLE" as far as its power to restore the Hair on bald heads, and to give the color of youth, (no matter how gray it may be), is concerned.
USE NO OTHER RESTORATIVE
BUT HEIMSTREET'S,
It is the original, the only reliable, and the cheapest.—See the following testimony:
JACKSON, Miss., May 29, 1860,
W. R. MERWIN, 61 Market street, St. Louis, Mo.,
Advertising Agent for Heimstreet's Hair Restorative.
DEAR SIR: The Medicine you introduced into city last winter has all having a large sale, and giving in every case satisfaction. Mr. James Henderson (one of our first citizens) says, that "he has used the Hair Dyes and Restoratives of the day, but has never used an article equal to HEIM-STREET'S INIMITABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE. That it far surpasses any preparation of the kind ever used for restoring the Hair of the bald and gray to its original luxuriance and beauty."

The Nomination of a United States Senator.

A caucus of the Union members of the Legislature was held last night, in which Hon. Garrett Davis was nominated for the Senate of the United States.

Lecture.

Rev. M. J. Spalding, D. D., Bishop of Louisville, will deliver a lecture on Sunday evening, 15th inst., in the Catholic Church, of Frankfort. Subject:

"Civilization and the Catholic Church, historically considered."

Lecture to commence at half-past seven o'clock. Doors open at seven.

The Public Binding.

The following passage occurs in the Frankfort correspondence of the Louisville Journal of the date of yesterday:

Mr. Huston reported a bill creating the office of Public Binder, and repealing the law authorizing the Auditor to make contracts for binding. This is an important movement. Mr. Overton, who was a contractor for binding, has left in search of his rights at Russellville, but before leaving very conveniently made over his property to some relative, who is now receiving the money of the State, which will doubtless find its way into rebel pockets.

The Journal's correspondent terms Mr. Huston's bill an "important" movement—but why it is so, is left in obscurity, unless it be "important" to some hungry expectant of public crumbs. Mr. Huston's bill leaves the public binding in all essential particulars just as it is, or rather was, prior to the present contract, except as to the creation of a new office. There is about as much use for the establishment of the office of public wood-chopper as there is for that of a public binder. Binding is a mechanical business. The contractor for the job of binding does to work according to order and to contract, or he gets no pay. Under the law, as it now exists, the Auditor has entered into a written contract, with parties to do the work; and the terms of the contract are more favorable to the State than the prices for binding proposed in Huston's bill. It is not intimated that the contractors have been unfaithful or derelict in any duty or stipulation. We cannot, therefore, believe that the Legislature would undertake to violate the State Constitution, in that important provision which prohibits from impairing the obligation of contracts, hence we do not think Mr. Huston's bill, "important" as it may be, will become a law until it is so amended as to prescribe the term of office of the proposed Public Binder, to commence at the date of the expiration of the present contract, on file in the Auditor's Office.

If the bill is so amended, we see no particular use in passing it at this time, while in its terms it is clearly less favorable to the interests of the State and the condition of the Treasury than the contract made by the Auditor under the existing law.

In connection with this subject, we would state that the present contractors, Major & Overton, have had the binding of the public documents less than twelve months, and in order to do the work properly, have been at great expense in fitting up their establishment. It is therefore palpable injustice to them—not to mention the unconstitutionality of the proceeding—to attempt at this time to break the contract and subject them to the consequent loss, with no other object in view than to give the post to some political favorite at an increased expense to the State.

The correspondent of the Journal seems disposed to excite the prejudice of the dominant party in the Legislature against one of the contractors for the binding by charging that his brother has "left in search of his rights at Russellville." This statement is not only mean but absurd. Waller Overton, one of the contractors—and, by the way, the correspondent does not let us know that there was any other person interested—did go South in the Summer or Fall, but we have not heard that he is at Russellville, or in any manner connected with the rebellion. But what if he is in Dixie? Have the members of the Legislature and those connected with the Journal no relatives or friends in the land of secession? The Mr. Overton who is now one of the contractors is at home, and has nothing more to do with the revolution now in progress than the correspondent of the Journal, or "any other man."

Our neighbor of the Commonwealth is very savage upon Mr. Burns, of Owen. He denounces him bitterly, and thinks he ought to be expelled from the House. He thinks Mr. Burns' sentiments are the more obnoxious because Mr. B. was born in the North. Our neighbor ought to be more charitable. He himself was born way up in the North, and if his paper is an index of his sentiments, he supports Lincoln, Cameron, Cochrane, and their extreme measures, while Mr. Burns is a strong advocate of Southern rights. Perhaps the latter left the North because he prefers the South and her peculiar institution. We are certain he does so, whether that was his reason for leaving the North or not, and we see nothing in the fact to warrant our neighbor's violent denunciation. We don't know why our neighbor left the congenial climes of Boreas. We suspect that he is "missed at home."

We are indebted to Col. L. J. Bradford, President of the State Agricultural Society for a number of valuable public documents relating to Agricultural subjects, among which we name the Ohio Agricultural Reports for the years 1858-59 and 60. The Ohio Reports are handsomely gotten up, and are important additions to our library. We have frequently had occasion to acknowledge similar favors from the accomplished and accommodating head of the State Agricultural Society.

Harney's Resolutions—Abolition Unmasked.

The caucus of the Union members of the Legislature, held on Thursday and Friday nights, having failed to agree upon resolutions which would harmonize all its antagonistic elements, on Saturday morning some four or five representative men of the party introduced into the House different sets of resolutions, embodying their individual views upon the great issues of the day. Those resolutions, while presenting many strong points of mutual agreement, furnish others of comparatively immaterial divergence. They all, however, reach practically pretty much the same result; a result which the great mass of the people of Kentucky will be as far from sympathizing with in the abstract, as they will be prompt and fearless to resist; whenever it shall be sought to be brought into practical operation. The people of Kentucky are not yet prepared for abolition, whatever may be the case with many of their representatives in the Legislature. The freemen of the Commonwealth will not, under any circumstances, embark in anti-slavery war, however warmly their unscrupulous representatives may instigate them thereto, or by whatever cunning devices seek to entrap them into it. And, above all, they will not so abuse themselves as to content themselves with simply protesting against the infamous project of a general arming of the slaves against their masters for the work of wholesale butchery and indiscriminate slaughter. But, whatever may be the shortcomings or neglects of the Legislature upon the subject, they will rise up with the spirit of unconquerable freemen, and the horror of christian patriots, to resist to the death, the first attempt to enforce so infamous and diabolical a policy. This is a plain fact none the less a fact because it may be somewhat unpalatable to their honors, the members of the present General Assembly; but the sooner they awake to a full sense of it in all its length and breadth, and scope and powers, and shape their action in view of it, the better will it be for the interests of all concerned.

If they neglect, either to realize the full force of the truth itself, or to govern their conduct by it, a revolution which now reaches scarcely beyond a small fraction of the State, may suddenly be enlarged into proportions commensurate with its extremest limits, and which an army of more than 200,000 willing instruments of a fanatical despotism may not be equal to suppress. But we wander from the subject immediately in hand. One of the resolutions, the 8th of the series offered by Mr. Harney, editor of the Louisville Democrat, amounts to practical abolition—nothing more, nothing less. It is but the legitimate and necessary sequel of the famous Sand Creek sermon of Mr. Harney, so frequently referred to by Mr. Prentice as containing the very quintessence of Abolition and negro equality. The principles of that famous sermon have, for years, passed through adroit concealments and disguises, and now, it would seem, have made their reappearance, at the proper juncture and hour, in the shape of the 8th resolution of the series presented by Mr. Harney on Saturday. The disguise beneath which they are covered is so flimsy and transparent that the very blind themselves can readily recognize beneath it the repulsive and disgusting features of the monster abolition. The resolution reads as follows:

8. That the military of the United States are neither bound nor authorized to execute State laws; and that when they occupy a State, or any part thereof, and the civil authorities abandon their functions, persons held to service in the State under the laws thereof are temporarily at liberty, and may be rightfully used by the military in manual labor, for wages or otherwise.

What is this but downright, barefaced abolition? Can anything else be made out of it? Certainly not. It means abolition, was intended to mean it, and, if adopted, will practically effect it. And abolition, too, not applying solely to the slaves of armed rebels, but embracing within its inevitable action those of the loyal master likewise. But, in addition to its being a direct move towards practical abolition, it contains sophistries which a candid man should scorn to employ, and fallacies of which an able man, which Mr. Harney undoubtedly is, could not possibly be ignorant. It is as unsound in law and logic as it is practically anti-slavery in purpose and effect. Mr. Harney certainly can not be so ignorant as not to know that while it may not be the duty of the military of the United States to execute the laws of the State, it is their bounden duty to respect those laws and all rights arising under them, so far as the state of the case will possibly admit of. Any tyro in statesmanship knows that much. And Mr. Harney must also know that a citizen forfeits no right whatever, either of person or property, by the failure of any civil authorities to exercise their functions, whether that failure arises from military occupation or otherwise. His right continues all the same. He simply loses the power, not the right, for the time being, to call in the civil authorities to enforce his right. But this gives no one, not even the military themselves, the right, further than is absolutely indispensable to military purposes, to interfere with, or invade, or destroy, however temporarily, the right itself.

Any such trespass upon, or violation of, individual rights, is a grave offense, if not crime, for which the party aggrieved is entitled to civil or criminal redress whenever the civil authorities resume their functions. And thus the slave, like any other property, must remain in the possession and enjoyment of the owner, unless his services are absolutely indispensable for military uses. His intrinsic condition, as regards freedom or slavery, is in no manner altered, but only his temporary employment may be affected thereby. And if his services are so temporarily employed by the army, the master, and not the slave, as Mr. Harney declares, is entitled to the proceeds or wages of his labor. These principles are too clear and indisputable to require elucidation, and it is only surprising that so intelligent a gentleman as Mr. Harney should have, by his resolution, rendered even so brief an allusion to them necessary. It can only be accounted for upon the supposition that Mr. Harney had a deep purpose in view—the destruction of slavery in Kentucky—and that in the accomplishment of that purpose he will not hesitate to disregard the plainest principles of the Constitution and law, and the most sacred rights of the citizen. But Mr. Harney need not deceive himself. The freemen of Kentucky are not to be deceived by his shallow sophistries, nor will they patiently submit to his deep-laid and cunningly devised scheme for the destruction of the institution of slavery. They have been terribly betrayed once. But now, thank heaven, they are vigilantly on their guard. Mere words and professions will not answer now. They require something more. And Mr. Harney will find that when he broaches his cunning scheme of Abolition, he will meet with such a fearful rebuke from the people that neither he nor his Abolition allies, in or out of the Legislature, will be anxious to repeat the suggestion again.

Mr. Harney protests against the arming of the slaves; but there he stops. He takes his indignation out in protesting. Well, suppose that his protests are contemptuously disregarded by the Administration, and slaves are armed for the wholesale massacre of men, women, and children alike, notwithstanding his protests. What will he do or propose then? Protest again, we suppose; but, at the same time, sustain the Administration, which perpetrates such infamy, in carrying on the war. His last resolution says so in almost so many words. "The Union is in no event to be abandoned"—not even when it is to be made the instrument of the total destruction of every constitutional right of Kentucky, and the indiscriminate butchery of every man, woman, and child in the South. So says the representative from Jefferson. He will reiterate against the infamy of arming the blacks; but if his remonstrances are not listened to, he will ignominiously make himself part and parcel of that infamy. He will not himself set on foot a bloody negro insurrection; but if that negro insurrection is set on foot by others, he will himself not only not resist the atrocity, but actually ally himself and seek to ally the proud freemen of Kentucky to it. If, in conducting the war, the Administration, in spite of Mr. Harney's remonstrances, should deem it necessary to arm the blacks, then would he have Kentuckians to stand side by side with armed slaves, while the savage work of murder of their own families, kindred, and friends goes bravely on. Such is the long and the short—the plain fact of Mr. Harney's proposition. Yeoman's resolutions go almost, if not quite, as far. Huston's are not much better. Wolfe's are the best of the lot; but they fall far—very far short of what they should be, and what the necessities of the day demand of Kentucky and her Representatives. Which series will be adopted? We cannot say. All that we can say is, that most of them are directly opposed to, and none of them come up to the deep, earnest sentiment and determined purpose of the people. Their Representatives in the Legislature may ignominiously submit to the infamous policy of the Secretary of War; but the people will not; and whenever the attempt shall be made, from any quarter, to impose such a policy upon them, from that moment will date, not the commencement, but the consummation of a new revolution. The race of Christian patriots and heroes in Kentucky is not yet extinguished, if that of its statesmen is. Let the Legislature and the Federal Administration note the fact and be wise in time.

COMMON SENSE.

The Federal Forces at Elizabethtown.

A soldier of the Thirty-seventh Indiana, writing from Elizabethtown, Ky., to the Nashville (Ind.) Republican, says:

"The Elizabethtown Democrat was published here before the advent of United States troops on the 'sacred soil'; but outside pressure compelled the thing to stop, and in its place is now published a sprightly little free-soil paper, called the 'Zouave Gazette,' published by the 19th Illinois regiment, stationed at this place.

"The town is under martial law. The good citizens feel very much abused, in their estimation, with such summary proceedings. They have brought the war to their own doors, and must submit to their fate and take the consequences, be they what they may."

A few days ago, at St. Louis, 1,185 horses condemned by the Board of Survey, were sold under the hammer by the Quartermaster, and brought prices varying from $20 to $45. These horses have been in service about six weeks to two months, and cost the Government originally from $115 to $128. Another sacrifice in the same way is to be made during the coming week, so says the St. Louis correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

FIRE.—A frame house situated on the grounds of the Feeble-minded Institution was entirely consumed by fire on Sunday last.

General Sherman, in command of the expedition to Port Royal, ordered home three correspondents of New York papers—one of them for getting drunk, and stealing everything he could lay his hands on when he landed!

ILLINOIS CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.—The following is the result of the election in Illinois for members of the Constitutional Convention; Democrats, 55; Republicans, 20. Total, 75.

The thirty-pound rifles heretofore used by the Berdan Sharp Shooters have been thrown aside as too unwieldy. To handle such a piece in an engagement would break down almost any man.

In consequence of a split in the Democratic party, the Republicans have succeeded in electing their candidate for Mayor of New York. The vote footed up as follows:

Opdyke, Republican..... 25,250
Gunther, Tammany Democrat..... 24,688
Wood, Mozart Democrat..... 24,085

The Cincinnati Commercial isn't fascinated with President Lincoln's message. In fact it turns up its nose. Witness the following:

"It is not a great State paper. As for its style—enough is said when we observe that Mr. Lincoln certainly wrote it himself!"

Governor Letcher of Virginia urges a forward movement. He says the banks of the Potomac are not the place to fight, but the banks of the Susquehanna.

Late from the South.

Through the kindness of a friend, we have received copies of the New Orleans Crescent, of the 22d, 23d, and 25th of November, from which we make a few extracts.

The Crescent, of the 25th, publishes the following dispatches, which we have not received from other sources:

The Gun-boat Tascara Burnt.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 24.

The gun-boat Tascara was burnt to the water's edge, fifteen miles above Helena, on Saturday. The origin of the fire is unknown. The magazine was saved. The shells forward of the aft locker exploded, but nobody was hurt. Dunnington and crew here.

Probable Seizure by Confederates of Machinery.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 24.

The steamer Pink Vulture arrived on yesterday, under a flag of truce, at Fort Donelson, on the Cumberland river, with a large tow in tow from Louisville. She is laden with machinery for a cotton factory at McMinnville, Tennessee. The machinery is from Massachusetts, and came through the blockade by special permit of Secretary Chase, obtained by a Union man, formerly a citizen of Nashville. Lieutenant Colonel McGavock, commanding at Fort Donelson, has detained the Vulture and crew to await instructions from Gen. Johnston. The machinery will be brought to this city.

The reported capture of one hundred and thirteen Lincolnites near Forts Donelson and Henry is erroneous.

Two Lincoln Gunboats Whipped.

The Patriot of this morning learns that two of Lincoln's gunboats came up the Cumberland river on the 18th inst., to Canton, Ky., where a field battery from Hopkinsville opened fire on them, and after a short engagement they retired, with about one hundred killed and one of their gunboats disabled. Our loss was four killed and a few wounded. The Chattanooga, Jeffersonian, of the 22d inst., gives an account of an engagement between the gunboat Conestoga, and a gun belonging to Capt. Southern's battery of flying artillery, near Canton. (Probably this is the same affair.) The engagement continued several hours without any important consequences. The gun was too small to make any impression on the iron covered sides of the boat. These facts are learned from a gentleman who lives near Canton.

The Gazette this morning publishes an extract from a private letter from Cumberland Gap, which says:

"News has reached here that a regiment of Indians crossed the line at Jacksborough, and were allowed to advance ten miles on Southern soil, when they were met by the Fifteenth Mississippi regiment in a hand to hand fight; and the result was, as might have been expected, the Southern boys charged them with such impetuosity that they broke and fled, leaving half their number dead upon the field. The Indiana regiment was literally cut to pieces. The news came direct, and the writer presumes it to be true, but the Knoxville Gazette of the 23d inst. makes no mention of the affair."

PARTON BROWNLOW.—We find in the Memphis Avalanche of the 30th of November, the following card from Mr. Brownlow, which seems to discredit the more recent accounts that he is in arms for the Union cause in East Tennessee:

Editors of the Avalanche: In your issue of the 14th inst., there appeared an article upon the subject of affairs in East Tennessee, in which I notice this paragraph:

"It is reported that Parton Brownlow had left Knoxville with thirty guns, and was a sympathizer in the Union movement in that quarter."
